The tithe rent-charge to the impropiator is £978 8s. 10d., and to the vicar £900. During the West Saxon era this was a place of considerable note; at the period of the Norman survey, and for several subsequent reigns, it was held in royal demesne, and gave name to an extensive forest. The town is situated on the main road from London through Devizes to Bath, and on the banks of the Avon; it consists principally of one street, nearly a mile

M.A. The church is an ancient structure, in the Early English style, with steeple and 3 bells, and has recently been repaired and restored, and a National school built at the cost of £320, of which £123 was contributed by the Committee of Council. The earliest register bears date 1590. There is a charity here bequeathed by the late William Talk, of 8s. per week to six poor and deserving persons in this parish. The population, in 1851, was 602, with 4,501 acres.

in length, which is well paved and lighted with gas; the houses are well-built, of soft freestone, but irregularly placed. Two mineral springs, one saline and the other chalybeate, were discovered in the vicinity some years ago; and in 1816 a new saline spa was obtained by boring to a depth of 351½ feet. It was anticipated that Melksham would advance into note in consequence of the medicinal qualities these waters possessed, and every accommodation for visitors was provided, including a pump-room, hot and cold baths, a handsome crescent, and an agreeable promenade; but after a very great outlay, the wells did not prove attractive to visitors, and are now entirely in disuse. The manufactures comprise superfine broadcloths, flat and round ropes, haircloths, cocoa fibre and sacking; and there is considerable business in malting. Petty sessions are held by the Justices of the Peace for Melksham division at the Town-hall on the last Tuesday in every month, and a County court for the recovery of small debts is likewise held at the same place every fourth week. The Town-hall and cheese market were erected in 1847 by a company of shareholders, at an expense of £3,350; they form a spacious and well-arranged edifice of white freestone, in the Italian style, and a great ornament to the town. The river Avon passes through the town, and is crossed by a handsome bridge of four arches, with light and elegant balustrades; near are one of the largest corn-mills in the county, an extensive cloth factory and dye-houses. The Wilts and Berks canal passes on the east of the town, and about  $1\frac{1}{2}$  mile southward joins the Kennet and Avon canal. The market is held every Monday for butter, poultry, &c.; on the first Monday in the month for cheese; and on every other Monday in the month for cattle, sheep, pigs, &c. An annual fair for cattle, sheep, horses, &c., is held in the Market-place on the 27th of July. The living is a vicarage, with the chapelries of Seend and Earl Stoke annexed, value £1,215 per annum, with residence, in the patronage of the Dean and Chapter of Salisbury; the Rev. George Hume, M.A., is the incumbent. The church of St. Michael is a spacious structure of freestone, with a handsome embattled tower surmounted by pinnacles, and was considerably improved and enlarged in 1846, at an expense of £2,000. The district chapelry of Whitley and Shaw is attached, of which the Rev. George Nutt, M.A., is the incumbent. The living is a perpetual curacy, in the gift of the vicar of Melksham. There are places of worship for Baptists, Independents, the Society of Friends, and Wesleyan Methodists; and National, British, and Infant schools. The Melksham union comprises six parishes. The Poor-house, a substantial stone building, is situated in the village of Semington, about 2 miles from the town. Melksham is a polling-place at elections for North Wilts. Walter Long, Esq., M.P., is lord of the manor.

BEANACRE and Blackmore are tithings; Shaw and Whitley form a chapelry, with 632 inhabitants.

MERE is 23 miles west-by-north from Salisbury, 102 west-south-west from London, 7 west of Hindon, 8 east-by-north from Wincanton, 6 from Semley railway station, and 4 from Gillingham railway station, locally situated on the borders of three counties—Wilts, Dorset, and Somerset,— which unite in the vicinity. The parish contains 7,355 acres, and a population, in 1851, of 1,156, exclusive of the tithings, and in the whole parish 2,991. Mere is a market-town, on the high road from Salisbury to Taunton Dean, in Somerset, in the diocese and archdeaconry of Salisbury, and deanery of Wylve, Mere hundred and union, and Hindon division. Flax spinning and silk throwing are carried on here, and the town is lighted with gas. Mere constitutes a part of the Duchy of Cornwall; in the year 1253 permission was given to Richard, Earl of Cornwall, to build a castle on the hill, now known as Castle Hill, and afterwards to fortify it. Mere Park, near the town, in a south-west direction, contains about 810 acres. The Ashfield water rises from a chalk hill in the neighbourhood, and after several mills have been turned by the stream, it passes on and joins the river Stour. There is an ancient building standing in the centre of the town, which now serves as a market house. The market is on Tuesday, and annual fairs are held on the 17th

Salisbury; the incumbent is the Rev. Thomas Blundell.
 The church of St. Michael the Archangel is a stone building, in good condition; the length from east to west is 95 feet; the width from north to south, including the doorway, 60 feet. Under a Gothic niche over the porch, on the north side, is the figure of a saint; it appears to be of an earlier date than the church itself. The tower is at the west end of the church, which seems to be the usual mode of building in this part of Wiltshire; it is very stately and well built, square in form, turreted, 35 yards high, surmounted at the angles with four lofty pinnacles, and containing 6 bells.
 The Prince of Wales is lord of the manor. Here are chapels for the Primitive Methodists and the Independents, the latter a large, new, handsome structure; also a National school, and a school in connection with the Congregational Board of Education. Here is a Literary Institute and Reading Room, and in 1859 a Penny Bank was established. In 1856 a cemetery was opened. During the excavations necessary in its formation, an earthen vessel was discovered, containing 400 Roman coins of very ancient date.

ZEALS GREEN ecclesiastical district includes a popula-
